Sarah Jones, a seventy-year-old woman

it was born. The case is a pathetic one.

Mrs. Mary Jones, the mother of the dead child, and Frank Jones, the son of the aged woman, are also under indictment for complicity in the murder. The evidence produced at the trial shows that when the child was born the grandmother asked the attending physician to chloroform the babe, which he promptly de clined to do. The doctor notified the police, and an investigation showed that the child had been asphyxlated with the deadly drug. Counsel for the defense contended that the evidence was only circumstantial, and that to guess what the grandmother had done would be a travesty on justice.

Letter Creates Sensation.

Letter Creates Sensation.

This in itself is indicative of the general attitude of the members of Congress towards the railroads. There is wide-spread demand for an investigation. That it is not limited to the Democrats, who started it, is evidenced by the face that Governor W. M. O. Dawson, or West Virginia, a Republican of the strennous type, has written to Senator Tillman, just as intense in his Democracy as is Governor Dawson in his Republicanism, asking him to ald in freeing the State from the thraidom of the Pennsylvania.

The letter of Governor Dawson, printed in The Times-Dispatch of yesterday, created a sensation, not only on the floor of the Senate, but at the other end of the Capitol as well. Senator Ellips had lold Senator Tillman, in the course of application of the Capitol as well.

told Sanator Tillman, in the course of a colloquy the other day, that the laws of West Virginia were ample to protect the people against the railroads. The West Virginia senator appeared to be as much surprised as anybody at the reception of the letter by the South Carolina senator, and was on his feet at once to protect that the laws of his State were amply sufficient to protect the citizens against the alleged oppression of the coal-carrying roads. He asked that the letter be ing roads. He asked that the letter referred to his own committee, that interstate Commerce. This action w ily to Senator Elkins, who holds the State of West Virginia in the holls of this hand, should have written to Senator Tillman for ald. The South Carolina senator stands for everything which Senator Elkins opposes, and vice versa.

Mr. Tillman reiterated to-day the statement which he made yesterday, that if the House resolution for further information as to the control of the three roads by the Pennsylvania, should fail for any reason, he would take steps to act in the matter. He is in the attitude of waiting.

Oscar W. Gillespie has met the deman for an investigation squarely and boldly and he declared to-day that he would be all in his power to get all the fact before the country and then try to pure the state of the s an end to a state of anars which is too grievous to be borne donger. He stumbled on the subject. He is a rather heavy, square-jawed lawyer of Fort Worth, now serving his second term in Congress. He is a man of great mental and physical vigor, and he is bringing to the investigation his training as a lawyer.

"One of the things which made me begin to investigate the affairs of the Pennsylvania," he said, "was the learning of the fact that Philadelphia had but one railroad. The fact was astounding one railroad. The fact was astounding to me, for my town of Forth Worth has nine, and that the great city of Philadel-phia should have but one seemed inredible.

phia should have but one seemed incredible.

I studied conditions existing in that city and the State of Pennsylvania, and the further I proceeded the more I became convinced that something was radically wrong, to put it mildly. It was my early conviction that a congressional inquiry should be made, and I introduced any first resolution. The inner answer of the Interstate Commerce Commission to that resolution, has made me more determined than ever to get all the facts. I believe we will eventually have them, and I am contident that it will be shown that the coal fields of Virginia and West Virginia are controlled by the Pennsylvania, which divides the tertitory among the Baltimore and Ohio, the Norfolk and Western and the Chesapeake and Ohio, and prevents too rapid development of the Southern mines, which would mean development at the expense of the mines of Pennsylvania."
